About

Manifesto

To envision an ever changing world.
To challenge ourselves. To reassess our positions. To dare. To choose our words.
To shift boundaries. To make our voices and our purpose heard.
To exist.

Who are we?

Enderby, a strategic communications consulting firm, is the shared entrepreneurial adventure launched by Delphine Jouenne and Cyril Chassaing.

It was formed on the basis of an idea: the need to grasp and understand the true complexity of their clients' business in order to make this intelligible for every stakeholder involved.

This complexity is now everywhere in our hyperconnected world, and what clarity remains is being blurred by many mutations, either economic, environmental, or technological. In a world so filled with noise, leaders, decision-makers, and experts have to make their voice and their purpose heard.

Independence and enterprise are in our nature, and we have spent the last 15 years putting our ideas to the benefit of those who advise, act, make decisions, and create every day, building the world of tomorrow. Ideas that shake up existing codes, shift boundaries, and do not hesitate to move beyond convention. Ideas that develop our clients' economic, financial and societal interests, and make their mark every day.

As a next-generation agency, always on the move, we cultivate an ethical and high-standard approach to our work. We are all motivated by the same goals : to be both creative and anticipative, while always remaining generous and responsible.
